UPHOLDS STAR-BULLETIN'S STAND ON BASEBALLEditor Honolulu Star-Bulletin,
Sir: I hasten to express my thanks for your straight-from-the-shoulder account of yesterday's ball game—the very truthful and accurate wording of events would give any "fan" who was not present the proper idea of what was done. As I read I exclaimed, "Here speaks a man who knows no fear and shows no favoritism."

Williams' studied attitude of surly contempt was a poor return for the reception given him—certainly an empty head can swell to vast dimensions—think it over I do not see now how he got his head through the gate.

It is my belief that Williams pitched the best game he had in him and that there was a terrible showing of yellow. I feel that many who went in a friendly mood came away disgusted with his idea of manly ball-playing.

The C. A. C. played a fast, clean, scientific game of ball, and it can easily be seen how these gentlemanly players when they go back to the States can bring or send us much aloha from the mainland.

The players' taunting of the umpire was very cowardly. I have there was too much at stake for Desha to bench Williams. Williams, knowing this, took advantage, and knowing the game to be lost, was willing to be pulled out so that he could wall and claim bad usage. It was a bad exhibition for a big man.

In closing I would like to ask the editor please answer through the columns of your welcome paper—

What would the big league do to a pitcher who deliberately smeared the ball with pitch-like substance? Is not this a serious infraction of rules? Thanking you for the courtesy of your paper,

Very truly yours,
JACK W. J. CONNOR.

(Section 4 of Rule 14 regarding discolored or damaged balls fully covers the Williams case of last Thursday. It is as follows: "In the event of a ball being intentionally discolored by rubbing it with the soil or otherwise by any player, or otherwise damaged by any player, the umpire shall forthwith demand the return of that ball and substitute for it another legal ball, as hereinbefore described, and impose a fine of $5 upon the offending player.")

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Mannie Phillips gave a New Year's dinner on Thursday at their Kahala residence for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Klamp, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodgins and Mrs. Frederick Knight.

Mrs. H. Gaillard Smart was hostess at a bridge luncheon today at her home at Kahala. Mrs. Frederick Knight, who sails shortly for her home in San Francisco, was the motif for the occasion. Luncheon was served at small tables for 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Klamp, Miss Louise Klamp, Miss Louise Girard and Miss Alice Cornet will sail for Europe on the Siberia Tuesday morning. Their departure is being keenly regretted by the smart set of Honolulu among whose things they have always taken active part. Their trip will keep them abroad for two years or longer. They have been the motif for considerable entertaining during the past month, all of their friends being anxious to secure a portion of their time before their departure on Tuesday.

Sails to Wed in Honolulu.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Rice, confetti, old shoes and streams of bright colors serpentine, which almost hid her from view, marked the departure of Miss Emily Strickland of St. Louis for Honolulu on the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia yesterday afternoon, and long after the last call of "all but passengers ashore" had been given, the young lady continued to be bombarded until the decks of the big steamship had the appearance of Market street after a Portola celebration.

It was whispered among her friends that the young lady, who is making her second voyage to the island metropolis, within a few months is to become the bride of a wealthy sugar planter. This, however, she stoutly denied, claiming that she "simply loved the Honolulu climate and couldn't be happy any place else." While she was in the midst of her denial, someone found a stack of rice sacks upon the dock and with the aid of a pocketknife several of her friends possessed themselves of a goodly supply of the shiny white grains and hastening back to the steamer's deck quickly silenced her protests with a shower of the pilfered commodity.

Miss Strickland was still alternately protesting her innocence of the charge of contemplated matrimony and dodging the rice and confetti when the hoarse voice of the liner's siren sounded the last warning to those who were not desirous of taking an ocean voyage, and her friends and inquisitors were forced to scamper ashore. "Just wait and read the Honolulu papers of two weeks from today," said one of the young ladies who had been most active in tormenting her departing cousin, and so the matter, so far as Miss Strickland was concerned, was disposed of.

But as far as the steamship company was concerned, the matter was not disposed of at all, for after the Mongolia had pulled out of her slip and was well into the stream and the friends of the passengers had departed, deck officials discovered that the supply of rice under their charge had been despoiled. An investigation immediately followed but no one appeared to have seen the marauders and now it is "up to" the Pacific Mail company to replace several sadly shrunken sacks of the cereal.
